WASHINGTON, D. C. October 28-An intimate friend of the president who talked with him on the subject to-day, says he is experincing much difficulty in his efforts to reorganize the civil service commission. He is aiming to secure for that service, three men who are well known to the country and whose names would be received as an earnest of his purpose to give such character to the commission as to give confidence to the friends of the movement, that he regards the reform in civil service as one of the most important features of his administration. At the same time, the president is seeking men whose appointment will satisfy the people, whether friendly to the movement not, that it is in the hands of practical, reasonable men, who are not doctrin-aires and who will consider and suggest needed modifications to popularize the reform in the execution of the law, without impairing its benefits The salary of the positions is only $3,500 and fe v men of prominence, who posses the qualifications ramed, are willing to make the sacrifice necessary. Many persons, whose names suggest themselves for places have not received appointments, because they have already declined. No appointment has been determined on. Among those who have declined appointments on the commission are Mr. Saltonstall and Mr. Chas. Codman, of Massachusetts, and Judge Schomaker and Mr. E O. Graves are among the names under consideration. A FEW OF THE FOURTH CLASS. The postmaster general has appointed the following fourta class postmasters:

Kentucky-Hazel Patch, John R. Kemper. Ohio-Smiley. John Haley; Pulaski, Stephen A. Robinson; Waynesfield, A. J. Huffer; Eagle, F. P. Smith; Piketon, A. W. Morgan; Payne, Daniel E Kaufman; Swanton, Byron V. Ludlum; Larre, E. W. Jonas

Indiana-Worthington, E Sharp; Milltown, Charles H. Trotter; Dalivale, George O. Suman; Monee, Jacob Glore; Deland, John Vaile; Mason, Andrew J. Campbell; Maryland, Martin Einert.

SOME NICE LITTLE PLUMS. The president has made the following appointments: W. S. Lee Dinkens, Mississippi, U S. marshall for the southern district of Mississippi; Edward B. Briggs, District of Columbia, U.S. consul at Santas, Brazil; Henry F. Welt, Massachusetts, assayer in charge of assay office at Boise City, Idaho.

are these: The men of the class felt that they were being unjustly and harshly treated by their instructor Lieutenant, Frank Green, of the signal service and when he added to thi. gross profanity, indiscriminately calling them names not to be repeated, they resolved to make an effort for reief. With this view, a meeting of the case was held, which resulted in a petition to the chief signal officer, setting forth their grievance and appealing for relief. The petition was answered by an order for the court martialing of all the men who had signed the paper, on the ground of in-subordination. General Hazen said to-night that the men were being court-martialed, not for expressing their grievances but for holding a meeting and combining for that purpose, which he said was And almost equal to mutiny. Lieutenant Green has been reprimanded by General Hazen for his conduct. The members of the class are being defended by Congressman Butterworth and Henry Wise Garnett. It is expected the court will be over to-morrow and the findings be submitted to General Hazen as the court was ordered by his orders. NOTES

NEWARK, N. J. Oct. 29.—Gen. George B. McCallan died at his residence on on one point; Orange mountain, suddenly of heart know of the certification of the $71,disease about midnight.

General McClellan died shortly after midnight of neuralgia of the heart. He had been under a physician's care about two weeks. Nothing serious was expecied until he was taken worse yesterday. He died surrounded by his family. He arrived home about six weeks ago from a trip west with his family and his invitations had been issued for a reception this evening. He died at St. Cloud, Orange mountain, where he had lived for nearly twenty years.

George Brinton McClellan, an American soldier, was born in Philadelphia in 1826. He graduated at West Point in 1846, served during the Mexican war, and was successively brevetted as first lieutenant and captain. He was afterward engaged in important engineering work. In 1855-56 he was a member of the military commission to visit the seat of war in the Crimea. He became chief engineer of the Illinois Central railroad in 1867, vice president in 1858, and president of the St. Louis and Cincinnatirail-July he was placed in command of the 11,33; six miles, 17,29 1.5; nine miles, division of the Potomac, and shortly af- 26.23 1.5; and for forty-six miles, strike on the South Atlantic railroad, ter of the army of the Potomac. Upon occurred vesterday. at Bristol. Ten. the retirement of General Scott (Nov. 1) he was appointed general-in-chief of the armies of the United States. Early in the spring of 1862 he transferred most of the aimy of the Potomac to the peninsula of the James, and laid siege to Yorktown, which was soon abandoned by the confederates, who, under Gen. J. E. Johnston, made a stand at Williamsburg (May 5), and fell back to Richmond. McClellan reached the Chickahominy against Richmond, which was brough to a virtual close by the battle of Malvern Hill (July 1), after which he fell back to Harrison's landing, where he intrenched himself. General Halleck, pletion of the business for which it general-in-chief, ordered McClellan to return with his whole army to Fortress Monroe and Yorktown. After the defeat of Pope at Bull Run, Aug. 29, 30, the command of the forces at and about Washington was conferred upon McClellan. The confederates, under Gen. Lee, then undertook the invasion of Maryland, which was brought to a close by the battle of Antietam, Sept. 16, 17. They then crossed the Potomac and fell back toward Rapidan. Great dissatisfaction was felt at the slowness with which McClellan followed them, and on Nov. 7 he was superseded in command by General Burnside. McClellan took no further part in the war. In 1864 he was the democratic candidate for president of the United states, and received the twentyone electorial votes of New Jersey, Delaware, and Kentucky. He was appointed engineer-in-chief of docks and piers in the city of New York in 1870, and resigned the office in 1873. He translated from French "A Manuel of Bayonet Exercises" (1852), and written "The Armies of Europe," &c. (1861), and "Report on the Organization and Campaigns of the Army of the Potomac" (1864).

Matinguished Congressional Guests,

In 1851, another celebrated man visited us. He was Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot. The exiled chieftain was tendered a formal reception by each House of Congress on separate days, and the crowd was so great in the Senate Chamber (now the Supreme Court room) that the newspaper reporters voluntarily relinquished their seats in order to make room for the ladies. This act of gallantry was deemed so remarkable that special mention was made of it in the official record of debates The Congressmen also gave Kossuth an elegant banquet, at which General Cass, Daniel Webster, and other disinguished statesmen made addresses. It was at this banquet that Kossuth delivered the speech which opened with the famous parallel be ween the Senate of Rome and the American Congress.

I was also present in the House of Representatives on the occasion of the welcome to a foreign guest, and this time it was a King. In 1874 the King of the Hawaiisn Islands visited this country. The dominion of that monarch is not very extensive; still he was regarded as a distinguished personage. When he came to Washington, loth Houses resolved to accord him a reception. It was not so very much of a ceremony, but in one respect it was entirely novel. According to the remarks of Speaker Blaine, King Kaluakaua was the first reigning monarch that had ever set foot on our shores; hence his arrival created quite a stir. A year or so later, the Emperor of Brazil paid us a visit; and since that time we have opened the doors of hospitality to other titled folks. But King Kaluakaua is entitled to the credit of having set them an example. -From "Among the Law-makers," by Edmund Alton, in St. Nicholas.

Swift's Specific!

Is nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half breed from the Creek Indians who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settles, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The above cut represents the method of manufacture twenty years ago, by Mr. C. T. Swift, one of the present proprietors. The demand has been gradually increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. Cast Into the River.

By Telegraph to Tax Sustricut. East Saginaw, Mich., October 28.-At 6:30 p. m. to-day a fire broke out on the tug McDonald, lying at the dock about one hundred feet south of the Tennessee avenue bridge A large number of people were gathered on the bridge, when a piece of the sidewalk on the bridge five feet wide and fortyfive feet long, containing about sixty people gave away with a crash and precipitated them into the river fifteen to eighteen feet deep, with a strong current. The night was cloudy and dark, but miraculously the greater number were saved, many badly bruised. The river is now being dragged and the body of one boy, named Sidney Fallon, aged eight years, has been brought up. It is thought several perished as twelve or thirteen are missing. James Twait was rescued, but is badly hart. John Rothenburg, injured about the legs; George Irwin, slightly injured; E. D. Cowles, managing editor of the Courier, was standing on the extreme further point of the bridge when it went down, He could not swim a stroke and was dragged by the struggling people to the bottom of the river twice, but got clear and drifting down clung to a spile and was rescued, sustaining but slight injuries. Owing to the large number of persons on the bridge at the time of the disaster, darkness and the fact that the people picked up along the river were hurried to their homes, it is impossible to tell how many are missing. Its reported there are thirteen. The current is very swift and it is thought some bodies may have drifted down

Monkeys' Family Life.

Among other mammals the female element wields the scepter in family life, but in the realms of apes the male is invested with the sovereign power, not by general suffrage, but by the right of force. The oldest and strongest male of a troop proclaims himself chief and leader, after having vanquished all his competitors. The longest teeth and the strongest arms de cide in the question of supremacy. All those who show reluctance to submit are chastised until they come to reason. To the strongest belongs the crown; in his sharp teeth resides his wisdom. This ferocious tyrant understands his duty as a leader, and performs the same with dignity. His subordinates flatter and fondle him in everyway. As a genuine Pasha, he accepts this respect with a kind of languid acquiescence. In return he watches carefully over his vassals, and shows a continual anxiety for their welfare and security. He orders and directs minute details in daily life. The female monkey gives birth to one young one, very seldom to twins. The new-born monkey is a little, ugly creature, bare of hairs, with spindling limbs and a repulsive, senile face. But the mother is passionately fond of her monster, and caresses and nurses it with remarkable devotion. She does not leave it for a single moment, she pressed it to her heart, rocks it to and fro, takes the utmost care to keep it absolutely clean. In the first period of life the baby is apathetic and almost insensible, but begins gradually to play with urchins of its age. The mother is a patient observer of the first steps of her beloved, and watches carefully that no harm may befall it. In the meantime she trains it, and the first virtue inculcated in the mind of the youngster is obedience, obedience in the strictest sense of the word. Men have ridiculed the maternal affection of the brute, and speak of "apish love." In our eyes the tenderness exhibited by the monkey may have a ridiculous side. but where is the man who could, without deep emotion, witness the anxiety of a mother-ape nursing her child? I must confess that, to my eye, in such cases she is at least the equal of the human mother. If the young ape dies the spectacle is a piteous one. The mother cannot be separated from the dead body, refuses all food, and frequently perishes from grief. In such crises the ape proves certainly his congeniality with the human race, and in his moral affections could stand as an example to many men.—Exchange. Noses and Handkerchiefs.

The gradual decline of the huraan nose is the result of the introduction and general use of handkerchiefs. The Romans never used handkerchiefs, and their noses, we all know, were the largest and finest type. Moreover, they were less liable to colds in the head than are the people at the present time, and their noses enjoyed almost a sinecure.-Philadelphia News.

Rochester, June 1, 1882. Ten Years ago I was attacked with the most Intense and deathly pains in my back and —Kidneys.

"Extending to the end of my toes and my brain! "Which made me delirous!

"From agony!!!! "It took three men to hold me on my bed at times!

"The Doctors tried in vain to relieve me, but to no purpose. Morphine and other opiates! "Had no effect!

After two months I was given up to

When my wife heard a neighbor tell what Hop Bitters had done for her, she at once got and gave me some. The first dose eased my brain and seemed to go hunting through my system for the pain.

The second dose eased me so much that I slept two hours, something I had not done for two months. Before I had used five bottles, I was well and at work as hard as any man could, for over three weeks: but I worked too hard for my strength, and taking a hard cold, I was taken with the most acute and painful rheumatism all through my system that ever was known.

"I called the doctors again, and after several week they left me a cripple on crutches, for life, as they said. I met a friend and told him my case, and he said Hop Bitters had cured him and would me. I poohed at him, but he was so earnest I was induced to use them arain. again.
In less than four weeks I threw away my crutches and went to work lightly and kept on using the bitters for five weeks, until I be-came as well as any man living and have been of for six years since.

It has also cured my wife, who had been sick for years; and has kept her and my children well and healthy with from two to three bottles per year. There is no need to be sick at all if these bitters are used.

WHITE SEAL

30,000 lives have been destroyed by the explosive qualities of petroleum. If every house hold would adopt the White Seal oil for family use, none of these unfortunate accidents would occur.

WHITE SEAL BURNING OIL has none of the defects usually found in common oils. It cannot be exploded, does not char the wick, will not smoke, emits no offensive odor, and prevents the breaking of chimneys. WHITE SEAL BURNING OIL is a rich oil for illuminating purposes. It is as light in color as pure spring water. It gives a strong steady light, and burns much longer than common oils.

If the White Seal Burning Oil is not sold in your vicinity, send your order direct to us for a barrel or a case containing two neat five gallon cans.

Superintendent Feltz opened the convention with roll call and a splendid attendance was exhibited. Rev. Mr. Miller, of Monroeville, conducted prayer and Miss Lulu Hamilton, of this city, gave a most interesting exercise with her reading class. Superintendent Coffin gave his second lesson in history and Professor Bell made his amnouncements as the recess hour arrived.

BLOODY WORK.

A Fort Wayne Man Commits a Double Murder at Chicago.

A. P. Burrus, formerly of Fort Wayne, shot and fataly wounded Miss Lillian Walter and Mrs. Ray Good last evening while the young ladies were leaving the office of R. G. Dun & Co.'s mercantile agency at No. 144 Monroe street. The day before Burrus had been dismissed from that office because he gave utterance to slanderous remarks about the character of his victims, and the shooting was done in a spirit of revenge. Burris fled after the shooting and was chased by a great crowd of people who wanted to lynch him, even after the police officers had taken him into custoey. Mrs. Good and Miss Walter were conveyed to the county hospital, where an examination of their wounds led the physicians to decide that they could not recover. The quarrel originated at St. Paul, where all the parties formerly re-

Burrus lived in Fort Wayne along about 1877 and before that time. He had no particular occupation, although he pretended to be an attorney. His crime is written up in three columns by Chicago papers.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Thompson party present the popular opera of "Mikado" at the Temple Monday evening. The plot of their comic opera is in Japan and the people appear in bewitching Japanese costumes. The Mikado is king of Japan and the characters admit of some very clever chorus and solo business. Mr. John Stetson calculates that he will clear $75,000 of the "Mikado" this season. The receipts of the Fifth avenue theater, New York, where the opera is being presented, still continue to be very large, approximating $10,000 a week. He is preparing another company to play the authorized version on the road in addition to some three or four companies already out. It is not stated that "Mikado" of the Thompson party is offi-

The Bayse Dramatic company gave 'M'lies" to a rather small assembly last night. To-night the party will present 'Hidden Hand." This company is decidedly clever and give a nice show. The admission prices average from ten to thirty cents and the audiences at the pleasant Academy are genteel and usually large.

He became chief engineer of the Hillions Central radroad in 1867, vice president in 1859, and president of the St. Louis and Cincinnati radroad in 1860. At the opening of the civil war he was commissioned as major general of Ohio volunteers, and was placed in command of the department of the Ohio. He was made major general in the regular army May 14, 1861, and commanded in western Virginia. In July he was placed in command of the division of the Potomac, and shortly after of the army of the Potomac. Upon the retirement of General Scott (Nov. I) he was appointed general-in-chief of the armies of the United States. Early in the spring of 1882 he transferred most of the aimy of the Potomac to the peninsula of the James, and laid siege to Yorktown, which was soon abandoned by the confederates, who, under Gen. J. E. Johnston, made a stand at Williamaburg (May 5), and fell back to Richmond. Concerners, Ohio, Oct. 29 - Captain Alfred E. Lee, who was private secretary to Governor Hayes when he was nom-inated and imagerated as president, is now in this city. His attention was called to a statement of George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, which has been extensively published, to the effect that General Grant told Childs that Tilden was elected and should have been imang-urated instead of Haves.

Lee says: "Puring the summer of 1873 I had numerous interviews with General Grant and smong the things dis-cussed was the Hayes. Tilden controvery, and General Grant gave to me to underto Governor Hayes when he was nom

General Grant and among the things discussed was the Hayes-Tilden controversy, and General Grant gave to me to understand that he had reason to believe Mr. Tilden and proposed to come down to Washington and be awarn in as president. Speaking of this, General Grant said in his quiet way, but with an expression of seriousness on his face which indicated that he meant every word: If Mr. Tilden had undertaken to do that I would have hanged him. Capitain Lee says General Grant told him this on more than one occasion and at one time told him he would like to have Mr. Hayes know it. During the controversy and all his subsequent acts and talk and the fact that President Grant had made thorough preparations to thwart any attempt to insugurate Mr. Tilden illegally, he thinks conclusively discredits the chiktish story. Lee quotes Gen. E. F. Noyes, late minuter to France, as being possessor of similar information.

Cast Into the River.

East Saginaw, Mich., October 28 At 6:30 p. m. to-day a fire broke out on the tug McDonald, lying at the dock about one hundred feet south of the Tentersce avenue bridge. A large number of people were gathered on the bridge, when a piece of the sidewalk on the bridge five feet wide and forty-five feet long, containing about sixty people gave away with a crash and precipitated them into the river lifecen to eighteen feet deep, with a street precipitated them into the river lifeon to eighteen feet deep, with a strong current. The night was cloudy and dark, but miraculously the greater number were saved, many badly bruised. The river is now being dragged and the body of one boy, samed Sidney Fallon, agod eight years, has been brought up. It is thought several perished as twelve or thirteen are missing. James Testi was resented, but is badly but! John Rothenburg, injured about the leave. was resence, but is badly hart. John Rothenburg, injured about the legic feeorge freun stightly injured; E. D. sussaining but slight injuries. Owing to the large number of persons on the bridge at the time of the disaster, darkness and the fact that the people picked up along the river were hurried to their homes, it is impossible to tell how many are missing. Its reported there are thirteen. The current is very swift and it is thought some bodies may have drifted down stream.

CONSTANTISOPLE, October 28. The war office presents a scene of unusual activity, clearly indicating that the Porte is determined on a topting effective measures in the event of the conference of the powers failing to agree on a plan for the settlement of the Roumelian question. An official report to day shows that 180,000 Turkish troops are now mustered at available points on the frontier for active service in the Balkan Pen-insula and reinforcements are continually arriving. The mustab-fizor landstrum and the Bashi-Bazouks have been summoned for military duty. The levy of the landstrum is only resorted to as a war measure and will add over 120,000 men to the service. Circassia has tendered over 25,000 cavalry and Al-bania has promised to assist the Porte. SHANGHAI, October 28. Owen N.

Monkeys' Family Life.

Among other mammals the female element wields the scepter in family life, but in the realms of spee the male is invested with the sovereign power, not by general suffrage, but by the right of torce. The oldest and strong-ext male of a troop proclaims himself chief and leader, after having vanquished all his competitors. The longest arms decide in the question of supremacy. All those who show reluctance to submit are chastised until they come to reason. To the strongest belongs the crown; in his alarp teeth resides his wisdom. This fore ions tyrant understands his duty as a leader, and performs the same with dionity. His subordinates flatter and foulde him in everyway. As a genuine Pasha, he accepts this respect with a kind of languid acquiescence. In return he watches carefully over his wassis, and shows a continual anxiety for their welfare and security. He orders and directs minute details in daily life. The female monkey gives birth to one young one, very seldom to twins. The new-lorn monkey is a little, ugly creature, have of hairs, with spindling limbs and a repulsive, senile face. But the mother is passionately found of her monter, and careaces and turses it with remarkable devotion. She does not leave it for a single moment, shapers-ed it to ber heart, rocks it to and fro, takes the utmost care to keep it almonted the sum of the promoster, and careaces and turses it with remarkable devotion. She does not leave it for a single moment, shapers-ed it to be beart, rocks it to and fro, takes the utmost care to keep it almonted the proposed of the minute of the promoster is desired in the structual approach, and watches carefully to play with urchins of its age. The mother is a patient observor of the first vertue inculcated in the mind of the poungster is checked and watches carefully that no harm may befall it. In the mean-time she train it, and the first v Among other mammals the female element wields the scepter in family life, but in the realms of spes the male where is the man who could, without deep emotion, witness the anxiety of a mother-age nursing her child? I must confees that, to my eye, in such cases she is at least the equal of the human motier. If the young ape dies the speckarle is a pitcous one. The mother cannot be separated from the dead holy, refuses all food, and frequently perishes from grief. In such crises the ape proves certainly his congeniality with the human race, and in his moral aftections could stand as an example to many men.—Exchange. ample to many men.—Exchange.

Noses and Handkerchiefs.

Nees and Handherchief.

The gradual decline of the human none is the result of the introduction and general use of handkerchiefs. The Homans never used handkerchiefs, and their nones, we all know, were the largest and finest type. Moreover, they were less liable to colds in the head than are the people at the present time, and their nones enjoyed almost a sine-cure—Philadelphia News.
